A message from our CEO

Dear Food Rescue Heroes,

Joining the 412 Food Rescue team as CEO in 2024 was definitely the highlight of my year! Seeing what our community accomplished together was especially meaningful. This is an incredible community, with a very real impact in our hometown of Pittsburgh and beyond. Your dedication, whether you give time, food or financial support, enabled us to impact two pressing issues: climate change and food insecurity.

In 2024, together we rescued close to 4.7 million pounds around Pittsburgh, and thanks to your continued support over the past 10 years that brings our cumulative impact to 35 million pounds of food rescued—the equivalent of 29 million meals and 70 million pounds of CO₂ emissions mitigated.

Your support fuels impact beyond Pittsburgh too, where our innovative Food Rescue Hero™ platform—developed to scale food recovery operations—is in use by 21 other food rescue organizations across North America, bringing the total network impact to an incredible 170 million pounds of food rescued since 2015. That's equivalent to 140 million meals, mitigating over 330 million pounds of CO₂ emissions in the process! And volunteers from Pittsburgh to Vancouver completed over 150,000 rescues via the Food Rescue Hero platform in 2024 alone.

The numbers don't tell the full story though. The programs your support makes possible are getting meals to postpartum women and their families, serving veterans and seniors where they are, delivering grocery bags to residents in supportive housing, and more.

That impact on people and on their ability not just to survive but thrive is what YOU make possible.

You (yes YOU!) have been instrumental in creating 10 years of impact. Looking ahead, we celebrate not just the last 10 years, but the opportunity presented by our growth over the next 10 years to transform communities near and far. And we know the community you all helped build will continue to be instrumental in that success.

On behalf of our staff and Board of Directors, I am pleased to present our 2024 Impact Report, with our thanks to you - our friends and supporters - for joining us in delivering good food to those who need it most.

We are truly driven by you!

Alyssa Cholodofsky

Chief Executive Officer

412 Food Rescue

Good food belongs to people, not landfills.

Our Mission

412 Food Rescue swiftly rescues fresh surplus food and delivers it where it's needed most, leveraging people-powered technology and strong community partnerships to tackle both food insecurity and climate change.

As we celebrate 10 years, we've refreshed our mission and vision to reflect how far we've come—while staying rooted in what's always mattered most: Through community partnership, innovative technology, and radical gratitude, we combat food insecurity, reduce food waste, and protect the planet.

Thanks to you, we use innovative technology and strong community partnerships to deliver fresh, healthy surplus food where it's needed most across Greater Pittsburgh—and beyond. Through our Food Rescue Hero™ platform, your support turns potential waste into meaningful access to food. Together, we're tackling climate change and food insecurity with local action and national collaboration—proving that surplus can build a stronger, more equitable future.

Our Vision

A World Without Hunger and Waste:

Ending food waste by turning surplus into sustenance, strengthening communities and protecting the planet.

Mission Impact

In 2024, 412 Food Rescue redistributed 4.7 million pounds of food in the Greater Pittsburgh area, 88% of which was fresh, perishable food. More than half of this rescued amount was volunteer-driven!

But what impact does that have?

The numbers only scratch the surface of telling the full story.

The impact of food recovery is in the outcomes for people

the environment

our communities

These are those stories of impact.

Pittsburgh Operations

By rescuing 4.7 million pounds of good food and keeping it out of the waste stream, we prevented 12.7 million pounds of carbon emissions. This offset is roughly equivalent to 11.9 rail cars full of coal being burned or taking 501 cars off the road for an entire year.

Thanks to partnerships with housing sites, Head Start programs, veterans groups and other nontraditional access sites, volunteers are bringing healthy food within reach of people, increasing food security, and increasing safe distribution points for food access.

“The donations from 412 Food Rescue have been an amazing help to many clients and LGBTQIA+ community members in need that come through the doors of Persad Center. Smiles, tears, thank-yous and hugs. Access to services sometimes get blocked due to fear and the marginalized treatment of many members of the LGBTQIA+ community. Folks need to feel safe when seeking help and this partnership does so much for Persad Center’s mission and the larger community.”

- Tony Kuhar, Facility & Operations Coordinator, The Persad Center

“These food deliveries are incredibly impactful for the neighborhood. There are no grocery stores close to home – the Hill District is a food desert, and we’re grateful for the consistent deliveries every Monday and Tuesday. People come here, line up with smiles on their faces and congregate. Your consistency has helped to foster a sense of community here, as well. We get over 2,000 lbs of food per week, and none of it goes to waste.”

- Noah Muller, Neighborhood Resilience Project

The Good Food Project

After the fire at the Millvale Food & Energy Hub in 2023, the incredible support from our community allowed us bring the Good Food Project and HACP Mobile Grocery Bagging program back to our restored space in early 2024. This return made it possible to:

- * Restore full meal production capacity
- * Launch a pilot program with the American Heart Association to deliver meals to postpartum women and their families
- * Offer even more meaningful volunteer opportunities to take action and make a difference in 2024:

- * 762 shifts filled by volunteers for Grocery Bagging
- * 719 shifts filled by volunteers for Kitchen Prep
- * Produced 27,297 meals for the community

"[The Good Food Project meals] bring a bit of excitement and surprise, as people never quite know what delicious dishes they'll receive...it almost feels like I'm the chef serving up these meals myself! Our seniors especially love it; they often save the meals for lunch or share them with their families and neighbors. It's heartening to see people run out of classes just to make sure they secure their meals. The impact on our community has been significant, and I can't express enough how much we value this partnership."

- Alexander Peyton, Kingsley Association

FARMSHARE

After a brief hiatus, our UglyCSA program returned as FarmShare and opened up the opportunity to sponsor a share, encouraging individuals and businesses to directly contribute to the fight against hunger.

Sponsored shares are a way to pay forward the ten weeks of farm-fresh local produce—directly supporting local communities, local agriculture, and 412 Food Rescue!

I loved my Farmshare haul. I am on a journey to do more meal prepping and I like not knowing what I will be getting and figuring out what to do with it - it is much less stressful than choosing from a huge produce department in a store.

Working Towards Zero Waste

This year, we expanded our zero-waste initiatives beyond our Millvale kitchen to our entire operation, working to ensure that nothing goes into the waste stream.

Sometimes we have food that isn't quite right for people, so we follow the EPA's Food Waste Scale to redirect food to other sustainable uses.

- * Farms
- * Animal sanctuaries
- * Compost facilities
- * Biodigestion nonprofits

These partners help to ensure this type of food is redirected to animals, compost, or alternative fuel production, and are critical partners getting us to zero waste!

Our Fleet team loves getting to visit Kindred Spirits Animal Sanctuary when we have non donatable items that will make great treats for rescued animals!

FOOD RESCUE HERO™

Growth was the theme for our innovative food recovery platform in 2024.

Recognizing that achieving full scalability means moving beyond the startup phase, we spent 2024 laying the foundation for organizational growth—expanding our team, launching some of our most ambitious features (including a new AI-driven analytics platform), and streamlining the tech infrastructure that powers Food Rescue Hero’s market growth.

We accelerated expansion—growing our footprint to 24 signed Food Rescue Hero Network partners across seven new locations—while building the framework for continued scaling and enhancing the user experience for our already top of class SaaS platform.

New partners:

- * We Don't Waste
(Denver, CO)
- * Marcella Foundation
(South Lake Tahoe, CA)
- * Chicago Food Rescue
(Chicago, IL)
- * My Father's Table
(Minot, ND)
- * Potluck Food Rescue
(Little Rock, AR)
- * Oneida County Food Coalition
(Utica-Rome, NY)
- * Compost Carpool Food Project
(Dallas-Fort Worth, TX)

In 2024, over 150,000 rescues were completed using the Food Rescue Hero platform, delivering food and climate impact in communities spanning North America.

Our Network's climate impact of 102.5 million pounds of mitigated carbon emissions provides an offset equivalent to taking 4,043 cars off the road for a year, or growing 372,045 tree saplings for a decade!

FOOD RESCUE HERO™

To help our partners do even more, we released 123 new features and updates. These improvements focused on quality of life for users, smooth volunteer experience, and enhanced data functionality—making it easier and faster for partners to grow their impact.

New features:

Multi-Stop functionality lets dispatchers combine routes—making things easier for our super-volunteers, who used to juggle multiple rescues and plan each stop on their own.

Our Suggested Nonprofits matching algorithm increases equitability in donation-matching food distribution, and increases staff efficiency for our partners.

A work-in-progress hub saves dispatchers time and energy spent tracking incoming donations before they become rescues in the mobile app.

Additional important updates included enhanced embedded reports, improvements to onboarding, and cloud migration.

"I would recommend the Food Rescue Hero app for any organization that is looking to grow and scale their operations and to get better data than they're currently able to get through their tracking mechanisms. It also brings in tons of new people, new donors and constituents, through the volunteer portion of the app, and really makes people feel connected to the cause of food rescue."

- Heather, Kentucky Harvest

"We really strive to be equitable with our donations and...it really allows our dispatch team to be intentional when they place donations. It makes food rescues a little bit different in that sense where we can choose where we send donations and know that it will be impactful."

- Addie Walsh, 530 Food Rescue

Financial Supporters

Our work at 412 Food Rescue is only possible because of people like you—partners and supporters who choose to invest in real, community-driven impact.

In 2024, more than 1,500 individuals, businesses, foundations, and organizations found creative, personal ways to support our mission—turning their unique talents into critical financial fuel.

Community Fundraisers

Hundreds of runners hit the streets raising money and awareness through partnerships with the Pittsburgh Marathon and the PA Brewery Running Series, both of which make it easy for athletes to meet not only their personal goals, but also create impact by running for a reason.

But running isn't the only way our creative cast of heroes has leveraged their special skills and interests to make a difference!

Janney Montgomery Scott LLC melded corporate support with athletic endeavors for their annual golf outing. For the third year in a row, this group dedicated their efforts to 412 Food Rescue, showing you can have a good time and make a difference!

7-year-old Augie created impact by setting up a lemonade stand benefiting 412 Food Rescue during the Highland Park yard sale, proving everyone has the power to make a difference, no matter their age.

Financial Supporters

Institutional Support

From foundations to food donors, community institutions create impact through their financial support. Giant Eagle, for example, partnered with the Pittsburgh Penguins, Pirates, and Duquesne Women's and Men's Basketball to raise both awareness and funds.

During the 2023-2024 season, for every save made by a Penguins goalie at home games, Giant Eagle pledged to donate $10 to 412 Food Rescue. This "Season Saves" initiative raised $12,500!

They also teamed up, rolled up their sleeves, and joined 412 Food Rescue for a day of volunteering!

"412 Food Rescue is a great example of an organization that responds to uncertain times with thoughtful organized action. Our investment in 412 Food Rescue is more than a financial contribution. By bringing fresh, nutritious food directly into our neighborhoods, 412 Food Rescue not only ensures access to essential nourishment, but also alleviates the burden on community members. This allows neighbors to focus on other pressing needs such as housing, healthcare, and employment. It also activates neighbors to work in collaboration with 412 Food Rescue as Food Rescuers supporting their community. We are honored to support 412 Food Rescue's mission and celebrate the impact they continue to make in the lives of so many."

- Marisol Valentin, McAuley Ministries Foundation

These are just a few highlights—there are thousands more stories made possible by people like you. Whether you gave during moments like Critical Needs Alert or Giving Tuesday, or show up every month as a Sustaining Hero, your support powers this work day after day.

Food Rescue Movement Champions

Back in 2015, when 412 Food Rescue launched, food recovery was still a rare concept. While the field has grown, it remains a young and evolving industry.

You've helped us lead the way—championing innovation, sharing knowledge, and inviting funders, policymakers, and the public to see what's possible when we scale food recovery.

In 2024, we continued to grow this part of our mission through our monthly webinar series, where we shared best practices and growth strategies.

We also held our third Food Recovery Conference—a two-day online event that brought together over 200 food recovery professionals, including 79 board members, media, prospective partners, and in-person network staff from partner organizations.

Growing our Advocate Network

Food recovery has grown into a powerful solution—but policy hasn't caught up or recognizes it as a viable solution to food waste, food insecurity, and climate change. We believe it's time to update food recovery and charitable food system policies to reflect today's reality.

With support from people like you, we're working alongside policymakers at the local, state, and federal levels to build a framework that includes scaling food recovery.

During Food Rescue Hero week, elected officials—including the Mayor, County Executive, State and Federal Representatives, and City Council members—joined food rescues and saw firsthand how local businesses, nonprofits, volunteers, and supporters like you are driving change.

"The councilman is so glad that you made him aware of this opportunity. Not only did he enjoy his small part in supporting the recipients, he also made some friends! As time allows, we are going to check the app and participate in the one-time pickups.
